

About Me

I am an English undergraduate at King's College London. I am passionate about music, culture and specifically London's West End. When I'm not hosting 'fan events' and interviewing cast members for 'Everybody's Talking About Jamie': The Musical, I am probably writing about my love for theatre.

In the past year, I've become involved with the journalism world, and have written for Roar News, Broadway World, King's Business Review and other publications. Having been promoted to Podcast Editor and Advice Columnist in 2020/21, I can't wait to see where this takes me beyond my degree.

